THE Sandakan Spring Race Meeting, to be held on the Queen's Birthday, is, according to the copy of the "bye-laws and list of events" now before us, a well arranged and not too ambitious affair. The "North Borneo Race Fund" seems to be managed on a sounder and more modest basis than most of the Borneo speculative concerns, and we shall be pleased to see the institution prosper as it deserves.

THE San Francisco Examiner of April 3rd says that orders have been received at the Marc Island Navy Yard to basten the repairs on the Ranger, and night and day shifts are being worked. The vessel is being entirely renovated, and is expected to leave on April 26th. She will have a new set of bollers and new engines. Captain Harry E. Nichols, recently in charge of the naval recruiting station in San Francisco, has been assigned to the command of the wessel, and will bring her to the China station. become unfit for service, and will be sent back across the Pacific to end her days, a useless bulk, at the Navy Yard. The Ranger will most likely follow the course of the Marton and pass through Behring Sea on the way to the Orient. The Ranger is an iron vessel of 1,060 tons, third rate, and hark rigged. She is a sister engaged in survey work.

The following particulars respecting Raub, the alleged place where King Solomon is said to have procured "gold-dust, peacocks, and monkeys" and where a good deal of Hongkong and Straits money is at present sunk, have been published by rn Australian contemporary, but they must, of course, be taken cum grane:-"For the identical spot where King Solomon obtained gold, &c., a syndicate with £1,000,000 capital, stock issued, and a ro-stamp battery erected has just pounded out £11,000 Mount Ophir of Scriptural ienows, is close by. The old rocks, which were too low grade for King Solomon's reduction processes, are being ground up, and they average half an ounce to the ton. This goldfield of Solomon's, which has been idle from his time until now, is on the Malay Peninsula. The people who have gone in to develop it have had to cut seven miles of road through the jungle and clear 60 miles of tiver. The company has a concession on 20 miles of the goldfield. The formation is black slate. A shaft sunk rooft, on the lode has uncovered enough ore to keep the mill going a year. The ore will yield 2 oz. to the ton. In one place on the concession there is a hill agoft high and half a mile long. The company has tunneled into the hill about halfway from the bottom, and found ore ranging from 4dwt. to 70z, of gold per ton. The rec waries in width from aft. to oft. Late this +ffernoon the case was adjourned order that all parties, including his Worship, vessel of the Thetis, and has for years been could go on board the ship. Their investigations seem to have no bearing whatever on the question whether the defendant shot the plaintiff

INTERESTING FIRE INQUIRY. A SUSPICIOUS CASE.

On the ard instant there might have been a great configuration in Third Street, West Point district, but P.C. 50 was passing the houses Nos. 146 and 148 in that thoroughfare just as the flareup began and dashing through the door of the latter house quickly extinguished the flames,

To-day Mr. Wodehouse held an inquiry at the Magistracy futo the circumstances connected with the fire, when the following evidence was

P.C. 50 said :- On the 3rd instant at 2.13 a.m. I was going along Pokiulum Road in company, with constable Fife when we hard a noise in Third Street and cries of "fire ! " ran there and saw fire on the 1st floor of No. 146, I at once dashed into the house and saw the venetians on fire. Between the challices there was paper stuffed in which evidently started the fire, for it was, soaked kerosene oil and burning fiercely. I took out the paper and produce it. There was a cock-loft in which other papers, soaked with kerosene, were found by me. The house is partly used as a camphor shop. If the cock-loft had caught fire it would have caught the roof also. It would also have communicated to the back rooms of the house, in fact to the entire house. It is ordinary Chinese brown paper. After putting the fire out I went out into the street and then saw fire flare up in house No. 148, which is next door to No. 146. It is separated by a stone wall only. The fire was visible close to the window. knocked at the door but getting no answer burst for the purpose of considering an application for it open, entered and found no occupants. I could see the whole shop from end to end, then went upstairs to the first floor and there saw a burning matrass lying on the bed in the front room, also some bamboo sticks near it. threw the burning matrass out of the window and some of the sticks too. I subsequently found that the mattrass smelt of oil very strongly. While in the street putting cut the

All that was there were a few Chinese accout books tied up, a small oplum pipe hox and a couple of cheap wooden bedsteads. Both the houses are two-storied buildings. No. 146 is a camphor shop, and on the first floor of it found two people pouring water on the venetians when I got up there, I do not charge them with arson in respect to the fire in that domicile. When I went into No. 148 a Chinaman followed me with a tub containing water. After I throw the mattrass out of the window he threw the water on the burning bamboos. He also assisted me to throw the barning bamboos out lost, and the directors now recommend the of the window. It appeared to me that he had poured kerdsene on the fire, possibly by mistake, for it seemed to me that he really desired to assist in putting the fire out. I noticed the back window of No. 146 was open when I went in, and the people of the house pointed that fact out to me. The back door of No. 148 was also open. It would be possible to get into 148 from 146 by the back door, by means of a ladder. I am rather doubtful, I wever, whether a man could get in through the back of those houses in that way. The back of those houses is a glass-blower's place and it would, in my opinion, be necessary to get a ladder, place it in the glass-blower's premises and then get in. But as the glassmatches found on the first floor of ras might have been used to set the house on fire. Inspector Mann-That's all his evidence, your

THE IMURIS MINES, LIMITED.

The following is the report of the directors submitted to the shareholders at the extraordinary general meeting, held at the Company's Offices: 9, Fenchurch Avenue

London, E.C. on Monday, April 11th. In May last year, when it was resolved to increase the capital of the Company from £175,000 to £200,000, it was expected that this railway to the mines would be open for traffic and that the dressing works in course of constructing the following extraordinary resolutions ;tion would be completed by the month of Jul or August, and had this been the case, the additional capital then created would, in th opinion of the Directors, have been ample for all purposes. But it will be in the recollection of shareholders, that when the Directors after wards met them in November, they had again to regret the non-completion of either the railway or the concentrating mill, both of which, however, have since been finished.

The railway, as is well-known, has proved an exceptionally heavy and costly undertaking in many ways; whilst the delay in the erection of mill and machinery has lost the Company many months of most valuable time, and now the Directors regret that they have sgain to come before the shareholders for more capital. When the Company was formed, the Directors deferred very much to the Judgment of the late Mr. Farrell, the vendor, liow best to work the mines and bring the ores to market as speedily and chesply as possible, not only because he was a thoroughly practical miner with a large and varied experience of mining operations in many parts of the world, but also because of his very large interest in the concern. In fact, he stipulated in his contract of sale, which was set forth in the prospectus, that he should have the management (under the Directors, of course) of the mines and the laying out the necessary works, and the Directors had every reason to believe that in conceding this to him they were acting in the best interests of the Company, se Mr. Farrell's sole interest lay in the speedy realization of the great mineral wealth of the several properties be had transferred to the

It now appears that, though as a mining man he was an exceptionally good Judge of mineral properties, be wanted experience, or perhaps to be more strictly accurate, largeness of views as regards the right and proper manner of developing such a property, and the result was that a great part of the rallway work had to be done over again, as it was quite inadequate for the character of the country traversed. This involved not only a great waste of time, but also a heavy loss to the Company, and when Mr. Seymour, our present able and emergetic Manager, took possession of the works and railway, he was advised by the enginters on the maltrass P.C. Fife arrived with a despatch-box, spot that both the railway and the mill would be required for doing so would not exceed £25,000, All that was burnt was the mattrass, a wooden which was accordingly raised. The difficulties bediteed and some hamboos. The large far to be overcome, however, proved much greater than had been anticipated, and it was only in the beginning of February that he had the satisfaction of announcing to the Directors that he had at last got the railway and concentrating works

"All this has entailed an expenditure on the property, which amounts in round figures to £25,000 raised last year, and it is absolutely render the Company the profitable undertaking which the directors believe it will now prove. It will be recollected that the directors, acting under the advice of eminent mining engineers decided to creet a concentrating plant, as though it was known that a considerable part of the value of the ore would go into the tallings, it was considered the best and most economical way of treating our ore, and the intention was to erect smelting furnaces later on for the treatment of the tailings and such ore as was not suitable for concentration. It has, however, now been proved that by concentration forty per cent, of the ore is Apart from the treatment of their own ores, in a minute or two I saw the the possession of such smolting works as it situated as the Company's property is, and adjoining as it does the principal railway in a Italy has ended, and the American Minister has district which is rapidly becoming a great mining been ordered to return to Rome. centre, the works will practically command the smelting work of the district Already the Company has been offered quantities to treat at $10 per too, sufficient to keep their proposed annexo to the Company's operations. The Directors feel confident that with the £50,000 provided as above they will have ample capital to erect the necessary smelting furnaces, and that, when once the smelters are in operation, the results will prove equal to anything they have ever anticipated, as unquestionably the mines are opening up and proving exceedingly productive.

le instructive :--Some years ago when in command of the teacliprer Leander, I was running up the China Sea towards Hongkong in the track of a cyclone which was some few bours in advance of me. I had been for some days previously aware, by the look of things, of its presence, and had been humoring the vessel secording to the bumors of the storm, when one morning I spoke the French ship: Eunice Alice, dismantled, having lost her spars the night before in the centre of my friend. On my arrival in Hongkong the French consul called on me and asked me for particulars, which I gave him, and in a few hours a French corvette and gunboat were steaming out to look for her. They found the vessel at anchor under one of the islands at the entrance of Hongkong and towed her into port and I have not yet forgotten the hearty grip of the hand I got from the old French skipper when I met him.

An then voyage I was bound for Shanghai' from Australia, and was within sight of the Chusin group when I exchanged signals with the British ship Doune Castle, also dismantled by a typhoon. The day I reached Shanghai reported the same and late that evening I received a letter requesting me to call on the senior naval officer, the commander of the Thelis, early the following morning. I was on board-his vessel at 7 s.m. and about noon that day there was a gunboat seeking the ship. On both occasions there was no shirking of responsibility, no red-tape, no waiting for au bentic advices. My single report was sufficlent to enable those in authority to send ships and men to the help of the unfortunate. Now. sir, it has been reported for several days past that there has been ship-wreck and disaster on the West Coast of this island, and I see by the papers this morning that the Quadra is at last to go in search of particulars, or any halfstaived wretches that may be even now crawling round the rocks looking for shell-fish to sustain them. Is there no one in Victoria. B.C., big enough with responsibility to order the Quadra, or for the matter of that to hire a steamer to go to the rescue at once, for, if there is not, to my mind it is about time there was, considering how rapidly the shipping interests of this port, in the way of sealers and West Coast traders, are increasing.____ M. J. KNIGHT. April 2nd, 1802. 🗆

On the 10th instant it was rumoured that the exasperated Koreans had made up their minds to take the right into their own hands and, as a matter of reprisal, sack the Japanese settlement. The Japanese then mustered in strong force and paraded the streets, especially those of the general Foreign settlement, without the Municipal Police Force of the latter interfering in any way whatever with the armed lapanese moh. praching on our happy hunting ground. But the Koreans did not put in an appearance; it scoms their own authorities kept the excited populace well in hand.

The bleeding, maltreated wretch was ultimately dragged by the crowd of Japanese rowdles before the forum of our chief of the holy Hermandad, (who hurriedly donned his cap with the golden band) to be charged after being beaten within an inch of his life almost, with committing larceny, a big charge trumped up out of nothing but spite for some pality, petty offence. The Japanese, as general rule, are open to reason, but their street Arabs in Chemulpo are certainly none of the most gentle of their kind. I fear their police authorities are very much overswed by the rabble of their own countrymen, to the great detriment of the public peace, while our own members of the police are utterly unable to curb a riotous mob, they being mostly conspicuous by their absence wherever they may be most urgently needed. I think with the massacres of '82 and '84 before their mind's eyes the Japanese are very unwise to side too roughshod over the inoffensive patives; they had much better not court too frivolously fresh, and perhaps much sterner disasters, than any preceding. Trade is going on acace, progressing favourably, and building operations are going on as briskly as ever; the building trades are certainly the best paying of any, in our little but rising metropolis -Shanghal Mercury.
